Resilient Georgia Regional Coalition Grant Program Overview

Our mission at Resilient Georgia is to lead a state-wide coalition to develop a closely aligned trauma-informed public and private network working toward a united vision to create a birth through 26-year-old integrated behavioral health system. This includes the use of essential tools such as education/teaching/training, workforce development, policy strengthening, practice research, and evaluation.

Resilient Georgia, in partnership with the Pittuloch Foundation, has been working with 12 cities across Georgia and the surrounding counties to provide a regional emphasis on trauma informed awareness and care, Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) and child sexual abuse prevention training as a basis to transform systems and procedures crossing both public and private sectors.

- Resilient Georgia serves as a supportive and guiding resource during each region's planning and implementation process.
- These regional action plans each address the behavioral health needs of individuals birth through 26 years old and families in the community and surrounding counties using the Collective Impact framework (a diverse, robust and well-planned public-private partnership).
- Trauma Informed Care, ACEs and child sexual abuse prevention can be the basis for systemic changes in a community. Each region has identified how one or more of these content areas are delivered to diverse community members through formal training, education, marketing and communications.
- Round 1 grants were awarded in Nov 2019 to regional coalitions based out of Athens, Augusta, Macon, Savannah and surrounding areas. Round 2 grants were awarded in July 2020 to regional coalitions based out of Albany, Columbus, Rome, Thomasville and surrounding areas. Round 3 grants were awarded in March 2021 to regional coalitions based out of Clayton, Cobb, Gwinnett, Valdosta and surrounding areas.

Athens Northeast Georgia

Abstract

The Athens-Clarke County and the Northeast Georgia region prioritizes a trauma-informed behavioral health continuum of care. The Athens Area Community Foundation, Athens Wellbeing Project, Envision Athens, and the University of Georgia are the four cornerstones of institutional support that will ensure the stewardship and success of various objectives to improve birth to 26 trauma-informed practices in the Northeast Georgia region. The Athens coalition focuses its evidence-based efforts on urban, suburban, and rural areas. These partners have adopted five main aims and multiple targeted populations to align with the unique needs of the area. This coalition, among several efforts, has conducted multiple trainings on secondary trauma, has begun to evaluate behavioral health utilization, outcomes, and needs in the Northeast Georgia region, and has supported training related to motivational interviewing approaches for patients with risky or dangerous patterns of substance abuse.

Resilient Chattahoochee Valley

Abstract

Resilient Chattahoochee Valley seeks to improve outcomes for children 0-16 in the Chattahoochee Valley by increasing awareness and knowledge on Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs), trauma and resiliency through the efforts of three equity-based strategies: Resilient Chattahoochee Valley, The Basics Chattahoochee Valley and Community Schools United. Resilient SWGA

Abstract

The Thomasville Resilient SWGA/The Vashti Center coalition aims to increase awareness and provide needed resources to integrate trauma-informed care, adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) education, resiliency, and mental health first aid across youth serving organizations. The coalition's location is in Southwest Georgia (SW GA) and includes the following counties: Colquitt, Decatur, Early, Grady, Miller, Mitchell, Seminole, and Thomas. Southwest Georgia, like many rural areas, is often more greatly affected by health disparities. The population carries higher burdens and rates of poverty, children in poverty, individuals feeling mental distress, and substantiated reports of child abuse and neglect when compared to the state, with fewer resources available to them. For context, while across the state of Georgia there are mental health provider shortages, these are more pronounced in rural areas such as in SW GA. 70% of the social workers in Georgia are employed in the metro Atlanta, meaning the remaining 30% of social workers covers the rest of the state. Another barrier to care in rural areas is the deficiency of access due to a lack of transportation, particularly public transportation. Anonymity and privacy can also often be challenging in small rural communities. The need in Southwest Georgia is immense for a more educated, engaged, and aware community on children's mental health, trauma-informed care practices, and resiliency initiatives for youth.

Coalition Geographic Service Area:
Colquitt, Decatur, Early, Grady, Miller,
Mitchell, Seminole, Thomas

Mission and Broad Goals

Resilient SWGA aims to utilize a tri-focused approach for its mission to address health disparities affecting rural Southwest Georgia to develop more resiliency, increase awareness and improve access to mental health. Its areas of focus and goals for year one include:

1. Rome-Floyd Region 1 Peer-to-Peer Network

Abstract

The Georgia Family Connection's Region 1 Peer to Peer Network (PTPN – R1) seeks to build a common understanding of adversity, trauma, adverse childhood experiences (ACES), poverty, and toxic stress in order to improve the health and well-being of children. The coalition is comprised of 15 counties in Northwest Georgia including Rome-Floyd, and some of their key partners include: Rome-Floyd County Commission on Children and Youth, Global Impact, Georgia Family Connection Partnership (GaFCP), and more. PTPN-R1 is working on approaches and evidence-based programs to build capacity of partners/leaders to promote trauma/poverty-informed strategy development and implementation, increase community awareness of the effects of trauma on children and communities and support of positive youth development, and influence systems change by increasing awareness of the Strengthening Families framework. For context, the region has cited rates of child abuse and neglect, child poverty, mental health issues, and youth risk behavior that are on par with or higher than the state average. The region has also been significantly impacted by increases in drug overdose and the methamphetamine and opioid crises, with general substance abuse as the main cause of removal of children from their homes. The COVID-19 pandemic has exacerbated these crises, along with increasing food and housing insecurities. The prevention/intervention, advocacy, and training work and collaborations of the coalition are crucial to build a region of resilience for the well-being of children and families in Northwest Georgia.

Mission and Broad Goals

R1-PTPN's mission drives them to advocate for system changes that eliminate the barriers and inefficiencies standing in the way of progress and positive outcomes for the well-being of kids and families. R1-PTPN has sought and seeks to accomplish this by:

- Building capacity of coordinators and key collaborative partners/leaders to support & promote trauma/poverty-informed strategy development and implementation through various activities.
- Increasing community awareness of the effects of trauma on children and communities and ways to support positive youth development to reduce the adverse effects of trauma. This increased awareness aids in building a common language and understanding across the region.
- Utilizing of evidence-based programs and practices like: Connections Matter, Darkness to Light, Bridges out of Poverty, the Prosperity Community Model, Mental Health First Aid - Question Persuade Refer (QPR), and other appropriate trauma/poverty activities.
- Influencing systems change by increasing awareness of the Strengthening Families framework and building the capacity of collaboratives & their partners to design and implement strategies and activities that align with the framework and protective factors and/or reflect understanding of poverty, trauma and adversity, and their effects on outcomes for children and families

United Way of Southwest Georgia

Abstract

The United Way of Southwest Georgia Success For Life Community Initiative (SFL) has stimulated a regional conversation across 13 counties in Southwest GA with a common goal to raise awareness of adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) and the toll they take on our community, increase communication and collaboration across community treatment and service sectors, bring a trauma-informed approach to treating people affected by ACEs, and “build resilience” to families and communities in order to break the intergenerational transmission of ACEs. The center of the project is based in Albany-Dougherty County and the catchment area includes: Baker, Calhoun, Crisp, Clay, Dougherty, Early, Lee, Mitchell, Quitman, Randolph, Sumter, Terrell, and Worth counties. According to the coalition, preventing ACEs and their intergenerational transfer is the greatest opportunity to improve the well-being of our communities’ public health. The SFL Initiative’s aims for Year 1 include a combination of education, innovation, service provision, and collaborative action. Across southwest GA, the coalition’s 32 partners are fostering resilience in 32 different ways, but still while working on the shared agenda to ensure a brighter future.

United Way of Southwest GA

Coalition Geographic Service Area: Baker, Calhoun, Clay, Crisp, Dougherty, Early, Lee, Mitchell, Quitman, Randolph, Sumter, Terrell, Worth

Mission and Broad Goals

The Success for Life Community Initiative is the upstream move to tackle the root cause of challenges faced by many in the community. The coalition’s goal is to dramatically improve the health and well-being of our community by addressing ACEs as a root cause of regional health issues, especially in light of the COVID-19 pandemic and the patterns of structural racism that endure in society. The SFL Community Initiative is a partnership of 30+ organizations and agencies throughout southwest Georgia working together to raise awareness of the effects of trauma, and to reduce its incidence and impact, as well as to build resilience in individuals, families, and our community. We all are connected, and we all win when a child succeeds in school, when families are financially stable, and when people are healthy. To “Live United” means being a part of the change. It takes everyone in the community working together to create a brighter future.

United Way of Southwest Georgia is working to advance the common good and strengthen systems that result in long-lasting changes in the following ways:

- Education – Helping children enter school ready to succeed
- Income – Improving financial literacy and career opportunities
- Health – Improving access to mental health services, decreasing alcohol misuse, preventing injuries and violence, and reducing chronic disease.
- All sectors of southwest Georgia (including but not limited to healthcare, government, judicial and law enforcement, education, daycare, housing, employment, business, civic groups, religious groups and parent networks) will recognize the impact of trauma on health from preconception through age 26, and provide or support services for raising healthy children in safe, stable, nurturing environments.

Round 3

Aligning Community Systems for Resilience Initiative, Cobb Collaborative,
Greater Valdosta United Way, Gwinnett Coalition

Aligning Community Systems for Resilience Initiative

Abstract

The Aligning Community Systems for Resilience Initiative (ACSRI) is a partnership between the Georgia Campaign for Adolescent Power & Potential (GCAPP), a community capacity-building organization that works to build a more equitable and healthy generation of young people, and Community Health Solutions (CHS), a public health consulting firm committed to addressing complex social issues that produce disparate outcomes. Together, these organizations will work to create a more trauma-informed community and system of care in Clayton County. Children's exposure to adverse childhood experiences (ACEs) remains a driver for poor health and social outcomes. The impact of ACEs can be seen in all segments of society, but its affects are significantly more prevalent in marginalized communities like those in Clayton County. Recent community conversations uncovered common concerns such as violence, poverty, broken family systems, trauma, and lack of mentorship. To address these issues, the ACSRI will utilize a community-informed approach by engaging 200 targeted youth and 200 community stakeholders through listening sessions, trainings, and action planning and will reach 1,000 residents through a multi-media awareness campaign.

Coalition Geographic Service Area:
Clayton

Mission and Broad Goals

The Aligning Community Systems for Resilience Initiative (ACSRI) is a multi-dimensional strategy designed to engage all sectors of the Clayton County community in the development of a trauma responsive community ecosystem.

A trauma responsive community is defined as a community in which:

- All community stakeholders are aware of the impact of ACEs on health and wellness
- Trauma Informed Care is a normative practice in all sectors
- Evidence based/evidence informed ACE prevention strategies are embedded within the community and in all sectors
- Responsive systems of support grounded in culturally responsive developmental relationships exist (and are easily accessed) throughout the community
- Voice and agency are given to community stakeholders who model resilience and "overcoming"
- Sector leaders and grassroots stakeholders work collaboratively to identify tailored prevention and remediation strategies that respond to the needs of their community as they evolve

Examples of ACEs-related Objectives

Prevention/Intervention	Advocacy/Policy	Trainings	Research, Evaluation, and Other Efforts
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Develop a culturally responsive awareness campaign that defines and acknowledges trauma, but promotes hope and healing in the community by lifting up the voices of resilient community members and community champions • Parent Toolkit - Launched in May 2020, the Parent Toolkit is available on GCAPP's website and offers medically accurate information and resources on a range of topics including healthy relationships and issues of consent to body image and nutrition. Includes tools and strategies for talking with children and conversation starters. • TMI-Georgia App, and its companion website provide teens a convenient source of information on sexual health. Cobb Collaborative

Abstract

The Cobb Collaborative is working to create a trauma-informed community throughout Cobb County by providing trainings and resources to organizations that work with children who are at risk for adverse childhood experiences (ACEs). This includes children living in poverty, the foster care system, the juvenile justice system, and others who have endured traumatic events. Cobb County is a densely populated suburban area within Metropolitan Atlanta. The percentage of children living in poverty in Cobb County is about 9% lower than that of the Georgia population. However, there are still 20,394 children living in poverty within the county. Evidence also suggests that children of minority races and ethnicities in Cobb county are living in poverty at higher rates than White children in the county. While poverty is not an indicator of trauma, it can make children more vulnerable to ACEs, which can negatively impact brain development and health outcomes. Thus, the Cobb Collaborative will focus on building a toolkit of resources and trainings for local stakeholders and community members to raise awareness and build capacity during Year 1. Then, during Year 2, in addition to facilitating ongoing trainings, the coalition will incorporate more policy/advocacy work.

Mission and Broad Goals

The Cobb Collaborative seeks to make Cobb County a place where community sector leaders and care providers (1) understand that trauma exists, (2) acknowledge its effects on children and families, (3) understand that trauma can have lasting impacts, and (4) learn that trauma can be prevented and resiliency can be built at the individual and community level.

The three main goals of the Cobb Collaborative include:

- Increase awareness and cultivate a shared language and understanding of trauma, adverse childhood experiences (ACEs), and the role of safe, stable and nurturing environments.
- Improve the trauma-informed capabilities of providers, families, and community members by equipping them with the training necessary to improve outcomes for the children they serve.
- Empower advocates to address long-standing issues of healthcare equity, systemic racism, and social justice and have agencies embed practices and protocols into the implementation of their work and strategies.

Greater Valdosta United Way

Abstract

Greater Valdosta United Way (GVUW) strives to be a hub for non-profit organizations in Berrien, Brooks, Clinch, Cook, Echols, Lanier, and Lowndes counties to provide a unified approach to human services in those communities. Although the Lowndes county area is considered the only metropolitan area in South Georgia, the other counties surrounding Valdosta consist of communities that contain a very diverse and rural population. GVUW serves populations that may have limited access to resources related to challenges with transportation, poverty, and/or lack of knowledge about available services. The communities in rural South Georgia have seen an increase in concerns related to mental health, suicide, human trafficking, and a growing number of children who struggle with adverse childhood experiences (ACEs). These experiences can cause chronic stress, behavioral issues, and altered brain development in children. Without intervention, ACEs can cause poor health outcomes as children mature into adults. To address these issues, GVUW will provide evidence-based training to parents, law enforcement, first responders, and those who work with children. GVUW will also provide local clinicians with youth mental health screening and referral information, and provide a local youth club with self-care, stress relief, and physical health education.

Coalition Geographic Service Area:

Gwinnett Coalition

Abstract

The Gwinnett Coalition is a 30-year-old non-profit organization in one of the fastest growing counties in the country, Gwinnett county. This suburban community of 936,250 residents is also the most diverse community in the southeastern United States. Many families in the region face language and culture barriers, and 16.5% of Gwinnett residents do not have health insurance. This rate is double the nationwide average of 8.8% of citizens without coverage. Additionally, many adults in Gwinnett communities of color are employed in low-wage, unstable jobs with minimal education, and 15.1% of children age 18 and younger live in poverty. Children living in environments such as these are more vulnerable to adverse childhood experiences (ACEs), which can be detrimental to long-term health and wellbeing. Therefore, the Gwinnett Coalition is seeking to build a trauma-informed community through capacity building and systems change to benefit children and families across the county. The Coalition will leverage its deep relationships with local nonprofits, agencies and service providers, and provide leadership for the development of a framework that moves the community along the continuum of trauma. This framework, along with a community needs assessment, will inform the work of the Gwinnett Coalition.

Mission and Broad Goals

The Gwinnett Coalition aims to:

1. Increase community awareness, implement a common language, and create understanding about adversity and resilience.
2. Build capacity by working with partners to train a wide variety of practitioners, community leaders, and community members on trauma-informed practices and ACEs prevention, reduction and intervention strategies.
