Don't Miss Out on the 2023 Fellows Program!

We're looking for a cohort of Black & Latinx technologists who are excited about shaping the future of tech with innovation and racial equity advocacy.

The Fellows Program is an intensive career accelerator for Black and Latinx college and graduate-level computer science students. For 9 weeks between June and August, you'll intern at a top tech company and engage in racial equity advocacy work. You'll participate in a series of learning experiences designed to give you the tools and resources you need to navigate the tech industry, build a lasting career, and advocate for yourself and your community. Not to mention – you'll make friendships to last you a lifetime (literally).

WHAT TO EXPECT

Racial Equity Advocacy Work
Learn about the current state of the tech industry, what systems need to change, and what your role is as a racial equity advocate.

Internship at a Leading Tech Company
Gain real-world work experience and access to innovators and industry leaders at a trusted Code2040 Company Partner.

Student Learning Experiences
Participate in workshops, panel discussions, and more to gain the tools and resources you need to navigate the tech industry and thrive in your career.

Intimate Cohort
Get to know each of your peers in a virtual setting with more opportunities for connection, healing, and candid conversation.

Build Community
Meet other Black and Latinx technologists and receive support from mentors and managers, all while redefining the future and face of tech and ensuring other technologists like you have the opportunity to succeed.

QUALIFICATIONS:

The Fellows Program is designed for:
- Currently enrolled students who attend a U.S. college or university
- Students who identify as Black and/or Latinx
- Students seeking internships for the summer they are applying (and NOT full-time employment)
- Students who plan on returning to school in the Fall after their summer internship
- Students with experience coding
- Students who are interested in advocating for racial equity in the tech industry
- Students who HAVE NOT previously participated in the Fellows Program

PROGRAM DATES:

This year's program will likely be a hybrid in-person/virtual program with all expenses paid travel & lodging included. Program logistics and dates will be finalized early Fall.
