

COOPERATION

PARENT LETTER

Hello Parents,

We are learning all about Cooperation. We defined cooperating as: Working well together to get something done.

Here are some ways you can teach Cooperation to your child at home:

Practice taking turns with siblings.

Helping a parent build or put something together.

Pick a hobby (cooking, sports, puzzles) and invite all family members to work on it together.

Schedule a time when all members of the family can work together to complete household chores.

Commands (although sometimes necessary) can bring about resistance, while suggestion brings out cooperation. Example: "Your room is so messy we might not be able to find things we need, let's clean it up so we can find our toys easier."
